

DAILY PLANET

ALL THE NEWS THAT FITS

Tuesday, January 6

1998

NASA Names John London New Manager for X-34 Program

John R. London, technical assistant to the manager of the Advanced Space Transportation Program at Marshall, has been appointed NASA X-34 Program Manager. London replaces Jack Levine, who retired from the agency on Jan. 3. The X-34 will demonstrate key technologies applicable to the development of a future Reusable Launch Vehicle, which could lower the cost of putting a pound of payload into space by a factor of 10.

---

Last Week for Nut Sale;
8 a.m. - 4 p.m.,
Tues. - Fri.,
Bldg. 4752

---

Retirement Reception Planned for Associate Director Rick Chappell

A farewell reception will be held for Center Associate Director for Science Rick Chappell 3:30 - 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 28 in Bldg. 4200, room P110. Tickets are $7 and may be purchased from administrative officers.